

Business College Changes Hands

Prof. Barrett after being at the head of the Falls City Business college for over ten years, leases his school to Prof. D. P. Smith of college Springs, Iowa who has already moved to our city and is now making the necessary improvements and arrangements to open the school Monday Sept. 5.

Prof. Barrett wishes us to inform the general public that Prof. Smith is an up to date school man in every particular and a true Christian man of the highest type, having spent nine years in the ministerial work and several years as teacher and manager of different colleges and that the good people of Richardson county in the future will receive much better instruction under the new than those who attended the school before this date.

Prof. Smith in order to give the people of this vicinity a chance to find out something of the work he intends to do, will make a discount of $20 from the price heretofore charged to all students enrolling, Monday Sept. 5 and paying cash or note for nine consecutive months.

Prof Barrett has in his possession several letters written by some of his old students who are now getting more money for one months work than it required to pay for a full course in college. These letters are beautifully written, the penmanship and wording is splendid and in looking them over we cannot understand why every young man and woman does not take a complete course in this school, when it is right at their door and can be had at such a small cost.

Prof. Barrett further wishes us to extend his thanks to the good people of Falls City and vicinity for their many kind favors and the encouragement and the liberal patronage that he has secured from them during the time he has been at the head of this institution.

Prof. Barrett has formed a partnership with T. J. Whitaker, for the purpose of conducting a real estate and loan business and they are now fitting up rooms in the Samuel Wahl building, formerly occupied by Dr. Rush where he will still continue to do business on the "Golden Rule" basis.

MEMORIES.

You ask why I weep when I look at that picture?
'Tis only a baby's face there on the wall.
But it brings back a mem'ry of days that have vanished.
When we heard her footsteps out there in the hall.
She came to our home one fine summer morning,
This sweet little cherub, so chubby and bright;
Like an angel from heaven, she brought with her, gladness,
She flooded our home with a heavenly light.

How dearly we loved her our tongues ne'er can tell it,
Her memory now brings a tear and a sigh;
For, the brightest of flowers that grow in life's garden,
At some time or other must wither and die.
We stood at her bedside one bleak winter evening,
At the hour when the sun slowly sank in the west;
And we kissed her good-bye, then we closed the pale eyelids,
And folded her hands on her cold silent breast.

She looked like an angel, Great God, how we missed her;
That night was the saddest of all in our home.
It seemed to us that the parting would kill us.
We were so heart broken so sad and alone,
But the years have passed by, on their wings bearing healing,
And balm for our hearts that were once so distressed;
But we ne'er can forget our golden haired darling,
Nor the day when we folded her hands on her breast.

WHY SITTING HENS LEAVE THE NESTS

In nearly all cases it is because they are so pestered with lice. Of course the hen does not know that the eggs may have cost you $5 a setting—she leaves just the same. Prussian Lice Powder dusted freely on the nest and eggs once each ten days does the business. Does not injure the eggs, and the little chicks will be free from lice when they come out. Should you like the liquid better, don't forget our Prussian Lice Killer.

"I have used Prussian Lice Killer for chickens and also for horses, and same has given entire satisfaction.—KIMOND LENTZ, Jericho, Wis.

Price 25 and 50 cents per can. Remember also our famous Prussian Poultry Food. If your dealer does not keep any of these, write us. We will supply you and send you our 68 page book free.

Just Before the Drawing Sweetheart.

Tune "Just Before the Battle Mother."
Just before the drawing sweetheart,
I am waiting for a claim;
Way out here in South Dakota,
Waiting here upon the plains,
As I gaze across the prairie
And the promised land I view
Just before the drawing sweetheart
I am thinking more of you.

Just before the drawing sweetheart,
Many there are coming here;
They have left their home and families
They have left their sweethearts
dear.

They are coming for the drawing
They are waiting for a home
Where they can take their own dear
loved ones,
And they never more will roam.

Now my darling watch the papers,
And if you should see my name,
You will know we drew a homestead,
You will know we drew a claim,
Then, my sweetheart you get ready,
And to Bonesteel you may come;
Then we'll go on a prairie schooner
To our South Dakota home.
